

Emergency Housing Guide for Seniors

Caring.com's mission is to help as many seniors and their caregivers as possible through empathetic, expert guidance. They offer seniors and their families a quality customer experience by combining rigorous data-driven thinking, the latest technology, and a real concern for seniors and caregivers. It is with high integrity and empathy that they provide all of these services at no charge.

If your loved one is struggling to make the payments to remain in an apartment or house and isn't sure where to turn, know that resources do exist. Programs and solutions across the country designed specifically to help low-income individuals, families and older adults are available. Caring.com's Emergency Housing Guide for Seniors lists programs available nationwide that were created specifically to help low-income seniors in need or others at risk of losing their homes.
